About Ganga Prem Hospice

Ganga Prem Hospice is a spiritually-orientated, non-profit hospice for terminally ill cancer patients. The Hospice provides medical, social, emotional and spiritual support for individuals and their loved ones as they face life threatening cancer, and in their ongoing grief.

Ganga Prem Hospice has been created to add other dimensions to the concept of hospice—the dimensions of spiritual care and holistic treatment. Ganga Prem Hospice exemplifies a fusion between medical care and spiritual perception. Eminent oncologists from Delhi have joined with spiritual seekers and holistic therapists in the Rishikesh area to alleviate the physical and emotional pain of cancer patients and their grieving families.

The Hospice is being constructed in a village called Gohri Maphi, in Raiwala. The village is situated at the foot of the Himalayas near to the towns of Rishikesh and Haridwar, which are known for their spiritual culture and the many well-developed holistic centres.

The Concept Of A Hospice

A hospice provides palliative care to chronic and terminally ill patients, aiming to help control their pain and other symptoms so that they can achieve the best possible quality of life and death. A hospice offers personal and caring service to both patients and their loved ones by providing information, comfort and basic care.

At Ganga Prem Hospice, volunteers, social workers, spiritual advisers and nurses assist doctors in providing medical and holistic care to terminally ill cancer patients. All facets of the patient's life—the physical, social, emotional and spiritual, are considered to be of importance. Trained in patient-centred terminal care techniques, staff and volunteers understand that each patient and his needs are unique.

Hospices provide solace and comfort to patients and their families and help them to adjust to the many challenges and losses they face in the terminal phases of cancer. Often holistic by nature, palliative care can provide pain relief, symptom control and support at the time when it is most needed. After death, the hospice extends care to family and friends of the patient during their bereavement. In some cases, where the patient's families are destitute, an attempt it made to rehabilitate the family in case of the patient's death.

The year 2014-15 saw the commencement of the construction of the East Wing of Ganga Prem Hospice inpatient facility. The foundation work was done, the plinth was laid, and the ground and first floors of the three-floor building started to take shape with the layouts of the rooms, toilets, balconies and stairwell becoming discernible. The roofs of the first two floors were also laid during the year. By the end of the year, the electrical and plumbing work on the ground floor, and fitting of granite in the window areas was well under-way. A 40-cubic metre under-ground water tank for fire safety was also constructed during the year.

Ganga Prem Hospice facility is designed as an ecofriendly and sustainable building, with waste-water management, rain-water harvesting, and solar-water heating systems incorporated in the building plan. During the year, a Decentralised Waste Water Treatment system (DWWT) with 10 KLD capacity was designed for the Hospice by the Delhi-based research organisation Centre for Science and Environment (CSE). The system will locally treat the sewage and make the treated water available for non-potable uses at the Hospice.

The hospice construction site was visited multiple number of times by the building's chief architect, Prof Yatin Pandya of FOOTPRINTS E.A.R.T.H of Ahmedabad, Gujarat. Prof Pandya inspected the ongoing construction work, and guided the onsite construction team.

Representatives from BHEL, and IFCI - the sponsors of the East Wing, also visited the site during the time.

Ganga Prem Hospice Charitable Cancer Clinics

In the year 2014-15, Ganga Prem Hospice held fifteen charitable cancer clinics. Of these clinics, twelve were the monthly cancer clinics organised in Rishikesh, while two were held in Dehradun, and one in Haridwar.

The Ganga Prem Hospice charitable cancer clinics continued to be held for the sixth successive year on the last Sunday of every month at the Sardarni Nanki Devi-Punjab Sindh Kshetra charitable hospital in Rishikesh. The cancer clinics attracted 1,282 patients who came to consult with the eminent oncologists who volunteered at the clinics throughout the year. Four hundred and seventy-one of these patients were already confirmed cancer patients while the rest had symptoms that indicated the possibility of cancer and came to avail of the free cancer screening opportunity offered at the clinics.

Sixty-one of the patients who received screening, i.e. 5% of the patients, were suspected of having cancer and were sent for further diagnostic tests to substantiate the suspicion. Another 19% of the cancer patients were terminally ill and were offered the service of the home care programme. In some cases when patients lived too far away from Rishikesh to receive visits from the team, the GPH palliative care doctor kept in touch with the patients and their families by telephone, and medicines were sent to them by local transport, whenever needed.

Head and neck cancers were the most frequently seen cancer. These were often due to the tobacco and gutkha chewing habit which is common among the men of the hilly region of Uttarakhand. Cancer of the tongue was the commonest single cancer type seen with fifty-three patients suffering from this malignancy. Breast cancer was the second most frequent cancer with forty-seven cases being recorded at the clinics.

The Ganga Prem Hospice Home Care Service

The Ganga Prem Hospice home care teams visited 130 patients with advanced stage cancer during the year
2014 -15. The patients, hailing mostly from Dehradun, Haridwar and Rishikesh, received palliative care consultations, nursing care, wound dressings, free medicines and counselling in their own homes.

In the final stages of a disease, patients often want to spend time at home, rather than being hospitalized. Ganga Prem Hospice enables the patients and their families to spend as much time together at home as possible, as the hospice team takes on the job of managing the patients' symptoms, providing them pain-relief, medical attention and emotional support. The frequency of the home visits increases as symptoms of the final days of the patient begin to exhibit.

Once the patient passes, the Ganga Prem Hospice team provide bereavement support to the family, as also long-term assistance and social and economic rehabilitation, whenever needed.

Of the 130 patients cared for in their homes in the year 2014-15, fifty-nine of the patients served by the Hospice lived in the state capital of Dehradun, while and another forty-seven resided in Rishikesh, the Hospice's hometown. Twenty-one patients were visited in their homes in the city of Haridwar while two lived in the Himalayan foothills, and one in the plains, in the town of Saharanpur. Three 4-day trips were made to Uttarkashi, 153 kilometres away from Rishikesh to visit a twenty-year old patient who was desperately in need of care.

Two new vehicles were donated to Ganga Prem Hospice in the year. The GPH vehicles travelled 11,072 kilometres during the year, most of this travel being on home care visits.

The number of patients visited in each month varied as new patients joined the programme and existing patients passed away. The maximum number of home care patients visited in one month occurred in September 2014 when fiftyone patients received home care visits. Ganga Prem Hospice employed three nurses during the year 2014-15, two of them being employed at any one time. A part time palliative care doctor and a nursing assistant also formed a regular part of the team along with the ambulance drivers who were always helpful to the team and to the families visited. Behind the scenes a team of administrators kept the data and statistics in order ensuring it was known which patient needed what at the right time. They also arranged that medicines and supplies were in stock as required.

The average number of patients visited per month was thirty-seven.

The total number of home care visits made during the year was 1771.

Young patients in the home care programme

Eight of the home care patients served by Ganga Prem Hospice were below the age of twenty. Serving terminally ill children is emotionally very difficult for the home care teams but the visits were carried out with much love and care and were much appreciated by the patients' families. After the death of one fourteen-year-old, the parents stated they could not have got through the ordeal without the daily support of the hospice team.
